DEDICATION

Every year California Wing is proud to provide an encampment program called the Cadet Training Group; an organization that only cadets may become members of. Membership with the requirement that a cadet only have the desire to learn, grow and strive for challenges yet unmet. Their courage and triumphs are the spirit of the senior and cadet staffs. Now that you have graduated from encampment it is up to you to grow and learn to insure the longevity of the CTG.

ENCAMPMENT COMMANDER

Despite his rather dead pan sense of humor, Major Edward Lee, the 1989 Vandenberg Encampment Commander, makes his point without losing any presence or bearing. When asked what image he wished to project at encampment he responded, "The first few days you need to be tough and after that it depends on the situation."

"As a former Spaatz cadet and married to one as well, Civil Air Patrol has helped me in the Police Academy and the Army." Major Lee just doesn't stop at helping with CAP however. He works as a Reserve Police Officer, He's in the Army National Guard, works as a part time Small Claims Court and Traffic Court judge, teaches at National University in Santa Clara and the University of Santa Clara Law School. His home life too is busy. "I help with the cleaning and cooking and do my share of babysitting as well. However, my wife is a better cook."

COMMANDANT OF CADETS

Evenhanded is how Comandant of Cadets, Michael J. Kathriner, refers to himself in his interactions with cadets. "I have never been Commandant of Cadets at a Vandenberg Encampment before. After this it is retirement for at least a year. CAP is a lot of hard work," says Kathriner. "CAP is the primary reason that I have the job I have. I've learned to work with people and to feel confident."

"We no longer do things at encampment just to harrass people. Everything has a purpose. Nowhere else have I been able to experience the feeling of grattitude that one feels as 200 cadets march in a square on graduation day."

As for the future of the Cadet Training Group, "It can only grow to serve the needs of Civil Air Patrol in the California Wing."

EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Contrary to popular opinion among many cadets, a position in Headquarters is far from easy. Major John Hadley, Executive Officer, explains some of the challenges of encampment. "It is an opportunity to improve leadership and management skills, but our reputations are on the line." "Civil Air Patrol is a great opportunity to show your abilities and as long as I continue to improve and learn I will stay with the program."

"I have never seen another organization do what we do," says Hadley. Major Hadley has been an Executive Officer at five previous encampments and offers the stability and support necessary to make the encampment experience worthwhile.
