California Wing
Cadet Summer Encampment
2000

Graduation Program

You sent us your child and we are returning to you a proud member of the Civil Air Patrol Cadet Training Group.

Welcome to the graduation ceremony of the Cadet Training Group for 2000. Today, 188 Basic Cadets are graduating. The Cadet Training Group staff is composed of 40 Cadet Officers and NCOs.

During the past week, the cadets learned many new skills. They participated in barracks maintenance, which includes mopping and buffing floors, scrubbing toilets, making beds with hospital corners and folding underwear. The kitchen staff was composed of Civil Air Patrol volunteers. All the Cadets rotated through KP duties. The cadets marched with military precision everywhere they went.

It wasn't all work. The cadets flew in Civil Air Patrol aircraft, ran an obstacle course, participated in the Leadership Reaction Course and received academic classes on such subjects as military customs and courtesies, attitude and discipline, the appropriate way to wear the Civil Air Patrol uniform and the various missions of the United States Air Force. In addition, the cadets got to experiment with model rocketry.

The California Wing Encampment is more than just a week of cleaning barracks and challenging activities. The most important goal that cadets achieve at the encampment is to learn to work as a team. The pride, camaraderie, and self-esteem which developed out of this teamwork and the sense of accomplishment are a true product of this incredible program. What the cadets have accomplished this week will positively affect them throughout their lives.

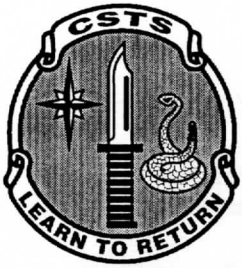
Cadet Survival Training School



The Cadet Survival Training School, otherwise known as "CSTS," has completed its third successful year training students to "Learn to Return." The curriculum for CSTS was created directly from actual U.S. military survival schools such as Navy SEALs, Army Rangers and Marine Recon. The textbooks are current U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy issue and the instructors have all been trained by the military in their respective courses.

The week begins with wide-range of classroom courses in the art of surviving in the wilderness. The classes consist of water survival, signaling, sustenance, psychological aspects, survival medicine, protection from the environment, land navigation and survival kits.

In addition to the mentally challenging courses, there are physically demanding ones. Students complete a physical training evaluation on the first day. They run the Army Obstacle Course, complete a Navy swim qualification and practice Navy water survival techniques at the pool, participate in mountain rappelling, and team building exercises at the Leadership Reaction Course.

Once the students have passed the comprehensive written test, they are taken into the field for four days to practice the skills they have learned. They are issued a survival vest prepacked with a minimum of equipment; some rope, a signal mirror, a survival knife, first aid items, fire starter, snare wire, a compass, a space blanket and a canteen. They must build shelters, gather food, procure water, light fires, and a variety of other tasks on which they are evaluated in order to graduate. Additionally, CAP pilots fly over the site and students practice signaling with the aircrew.

CSTS is tough and demanding but the students take away valuable skills that someday may save their own life or the lives of others.
